

Computing

April 25, 2002

BCS SUPPORTS CIO SUMMIT.

The BCS is lending its support to the third annual Chief Information Officers' and IT Directors' Summit. Taking place on 13 June at Le Meridien Hotel in London's Piccadilly, its theme is Strategic challenges in a skeptical climate.

Until recently, the champions of IT seemed to be heading for the boardroom.

But just as the crown was within reach, the technology bubble burst. Will IT be consigned to the back office as the board seeks financial justification for new investment? Or can the chief information office prove - once again - that IT offers true additional value for the business?

The high-profile speakers include: Claude Cargou, head of group audit and risk management and former chief information officer at Axa Group; Thomas Curran, chief technology officer and executive vice president at Bertelsmann, and Gregor Bailar, chief information officer at Capital One.